INSTRUMENT & SERVICE DESCRIPTION:

Bank Guarantee (BG) can be used for a whole variety of purposes. They are used in trade finance, global finance, project finance, credit enhancement, and so on. Getting access to these cash accounts is another matter. In today's financial climate it is near impossible for small to medium businesses to get access to large investor cash funds needed in transactions requiring an BG.

There is another way: Leased BG. Most persons at financial institutions do not understand the nature of leased bank instruments. However, banking institutions utilize the principles of financial asset leasing quite frequently and have for some time.

The concept is simple. Gain access to another party's cash-backed leased BG for a fee or other consideration for a set term. Once the term is up the account is either returned to the original asset holder or it is extended for another term.

Either the asset holder does a joint ownership with the borrower, or the instrument is transferred in ownership outright during the leased BG term. This way there is no issue with the ownership of the account.

During the term of the leased BG, the bank asset is made available with all the same rights of an account holder. For all legal purposes intended, the new owner may be allowed to lien, encumber, monetize, collateralize, and use the cash account as security.
